

Poorer districts score lower, but the penalty flattens at high poverty

Each point is one U.S. public school district; the grey line is the fitted log-poverty model

